DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Agarwala et al. (6,734,090).

Re claim 1, Agarwala et al. disclose forming an opening (26/28) in a porous dielectric layer (14) comprising a first low-k material overlying a substrate (10) (Col. 2, lines 25-27 and Col. 6, lines 10-12), the opening defined by sidewalls of the porous dielectric layer having exposed pores; sealing exposed pores in the sidewalls by depositing: an adhesion promoter (30) lining the sidewalls; and depositing a barrier metal layer (36) lining the opening (See Fig. 3E).

Re claim 2, Agarwala et al. further disclose filling the opening with a metal (38); and conducting chemical mechanical polishing (CMP) such that an upper surface of the metal filling the opening is substantially coplanar with an upper surface of the porous dielectric layer (Col. 7, lines 12-16).

Re claim 3, Agarwala et al. disclose forming the opening as a dual damascene opening (26/28); filling the opening with copper (Cu) as the metal, wherein the porous dielectric layer has a dielectric constant (k) less than 3.5.

Re claim 7, Agarwala et al. disclose sealing the pores by depositing an adhesion promoter (30) lining the sidewalls.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Agarwala et al. as applied to claims 1-3 and 7 above, and further in view of the following comments.

Agarwala et al. do not specifically disclose comprising depositing the swelling agent, adhesion agent or layer of dielectric material at a thickness substantially equal to a largest dimension of the exposed pores.

Re claims 4-6, One of ordinary skill in the art would have been led to the recited thickness through routine experimentation to achieve a desired device dimension, device associated characteristics and device density on the finished wafer. In addition, the selection of the recited thickness, it's obvious because it is a matter of determining optimum process conditions by routine experimentation with a limited number of species of result effective variables. These claims are prima facie obvious without showing that the claimed ranges achieve unexpected results relative to the prior art range. In re Woodruff, 16 USPQ2d 1935, 1937 (Fed. Cir. 1990). See also In re Huang, 40 USPQ2d 1685, 1688 (Fed. Cir. 1996)(claimed ranges or a result effective variable, which do not overlap the prior art ranges, are unpatentable unless they produce a new and unexpected result which is different in kind and not merely in degree from the results of the prior art). See also In re Boesch, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA) (discovery of optimum value of result effective variable in known process is ordinarily within skill or art) and In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233 (CCPA 1995) (selection of optimum ranges within prior art general conditions is obvious).

Note that the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claimed thickness or any unexpected results arising therefrom. Where patentability is said to be based upon particular chosen thickness or upon another variable recited in a claim, the Applicant must show that the chosen thickness are critical. In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578, 16 USPQ2d 1934, 1936 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

The thickness of this layer would depend on the size of the exposed pores.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 4/20/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Argawala et al. do not disclose sealing the exposed pores in the sidewalls of a porous dielectric layer with either a swelling agent and heating to swell the porous dielectric layer or an adhesion promoter. However, Argawala et al. disclose using an adhesion promoter layer (30) to line or seal the exposed pores of the sidewalls of a porous dielectric layer.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8 and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-13 and 15 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
